The course requires dedication, attention to details and a methodic approach. Learning Spanish in this way will help you to better understand your own language. You will gain access to the Spanish art, music, film and literature, not to mention that will prepare you for future opportunities in many areas of employment.

The course requires four to five hours of independent work per week. Students will have to follow a weekly routine that includes learning advance vocabulary, reading and summarising texts, completing grammar exercises, producing pieces of writing and listening to passages of different length and complexity.

At the end of the course, students are expected to: be fluent speakers of Spanish, be able to write well structured essays with sophisticated vocabulary and have a grounded knowledge of the history, politics, economy and culture of Spain. Students will have a deeper knowledge of the Spanish or Latinoamerican film and literary text the have chosen to work on.
